

Sharon Ellul-Bonici

Sharon Ellul-Bonici is a Maltese Eurosceptic politician.

Sharon Ellul-Bonici has been a member of the soft eurosceptic Maltese Labour Party. She tried to obtain her party's endorsement as a candidate for the 2004 European Parliament election, but was turned down for her hard eurosceptic links. Ellul-Bonici was at the time active in pan-European organisations such as No2EU and TEAM. The party's vigilance board feared that – once elected – she could join Europe of Democracies and Diversities rather than the PES group.<sup>[1]</sup>

For the 2009 EU election she was fielded on the Labour Party list,<sup>[2]</sup> but not elected to the European Parliament.

She has been the founding secretary-general of the European Alliance for Freedom, a eurosceptic pan-European party, established in late 2010, and led by former UKIP europarlamentarian Godfrey Bloom.<sup>[3]</sup>

Sharon is married to Kevin Ellul Bonici.<sup>[4]</sup>

References

1. Sansone, Kurt (16 Nov 2003), "MLP vigilance board stops Sharon Ellul Bonici's Euro election bid", Malta Today, retrieved 8 Aug 2011
2. Calleja, Claudia (15 Feb 2009), "Sharon Ellul Bonici launches MEP campaign", The Sunday Times (Times of Malta), retrieved 8 Aug 2011
3. About EAF, Eurallfree.org. Retrieved on 8 Aug 2011.
4. "Sharon, Kevin and the Socialists", Daphne Caruana Galizia's Notebook, 7 Feb 2009, retrieved 8 Aug 2011